What impressed me more was also close to my heart “ The Launch of iPhD” and I had been saying from the beginning that How best do we link our industry with our scientific endeavours, which leads to innovation, which leads to startup and We need to have strong, livelihood, sustainable, financial linkage which is possible only with the linkage of industry, I’m glad that this government by Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi Ji were open as this parameters concerned” The growth story across the world from today onwards is going to be Science based, even economy and tomorrow, I think we should have wider interact infact one of the MOU got signed by CSIR with IIM, we need to have management component also, economy, commerce component gradually coming on it, so the innovators of next 25 years will also be the torch bearer of India’s growth story. So we are possibly without paying contributing to that cost, when it happens we have reason to look back.

"It was 5th September 2017, visit of Padmasri R.A. Mashelkar, First Chancellor of AcSIR, to my office in Melbourne, and He presented the formation of AcSIR, India quickly realized that is the most innovative product, India has done so far in the academic field, where all the CSIR Laboratories PhD graduates are doing the transmission research. It took only 4 hours to sign the MoU, between RMIT & AcSIR, but it was the late Dr. Baldev Raj the second Chancellor of AcSIR and who signed the agreement on the day with RMIT. RMIT committed more than 100 crores to scholarship to CSIR graduates who are ready to make the difference in the world.

You and I do for the Country

“Because the country journey is very important once upon a time, India is really longing for independence, but after independence India was really longing for some kind of three time meal for a day, like this green revolution started, white revolution started, then industry revolution started, blue revolution started, now new revolution is required to just to prove that reach net zero, this is the change, this is the opportunity to all, some justice to nation, to the earth, now our nation is not waiting for all the globe is watching what India is going to do in next 1 year, 2 years, 5 years or 10 years. Our friends made big achievements in space. AcSIR model should be successful model, why because in this AcSIR graduates, I think 3/4th are women only, women are already taking the powers.

Last year CSIR society meeting was happening, originally the time given for the meeting by the Hon'ble Prime Minister was 1 hour, but the meeting went for 1 hour 55 mins, the Hon'ble PM of the country sitting for a scientific meeting 55 mins extra, that is a clear demonstration National leadership is celebrating science & technology and today Hon'ble Minister of S & T typically cancelled few programs and he made available here and grace the occasion for science and technology graduate convocation ceremony.

The Country always celebrates Raman's effect as National Science Day, AcSIR celebrate Raman's birthday as the Convocation of AcSIR day, let us celebrate Science & technology, and let us get a few Ramans from these graduates and I wish it should happen that will be the success of AcSIR”

AcSIR & ICMR

MoA between Academy of Scientific and Innovative Research and Indian Council of Medical Research signed

FACULTY OF MEDICAL RESEARCH

A new chapter in the history of AcSIR was added on December 13, 2023. AcSIR signed a Memorandum of Agreement with the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and a new faculty of "Medical Research" was created at AcSIR. This is a significant development towards making AcSIR a multi-disciplinary Research Institution for promotion of cutting-edge research in cross-disciplinary areas. This would provide much needed impetus to the medical research in the country.

The agreement was signed by Prof. N. Kalaiselvi, Chancellor, AcSIR, DG, CSIR & Secretary, DSIR and Prof. Rajiv Bahl, DG, ICMR & Secretary, DHR in presence of Prof. Manoj K. Dhar, Director, AcSIR, among others, at a function held at ICMR-NIMR.

Prof. N. Kalaiselvi, Chancellor, AcSIR highlighted that the collaboration between AcSIR and ICMR will allow the students from various backgrounds, STEM to explore medical sciences through audit courses, fostering interdisciplinary knowledge. To ensure the smooth implementation of the program, AcSIR and ICMR should conduct regular meetings either every three months or twice a year to monitor functionality. The collaboration between ICMR and AcSIR will be a fusion of different fields of education, offering students intradisciplinary learning opportunities.

Dr. Rajiv Bahl, Director-General of ICMR, highlighted the partnership's aim to increase medical researchers in India, addressing the significant disparity compared to the USA. This collaboration intends to bolster medical research prospects in India, benefitting future generations. He mentioned that the partnership between AcSIR and ICMR aims to increase the number of medical researchers in India, currently limited to 1000 per year, compared to 14,000 in the USA. The collaboration between AcSIR and ICMR will enhance the prospects of medical research in India and Future generations will benefit from this MoA.

The introduction of Medical Sciences in AcSIR, along with interdisciplinary learning, is expected to promote future innovators and entrepreneurs among the students. The partnership between ICMR and AcSIR aligns with the Prime Minister's vision for a healthy India, extending the focus beyond science and technology. With this collaboration of AcSIR and ICMR, the students of ICMR and CSIR will be connected through research. It is an accomplishment for a 12-year-old institution to be ranked 12th in the NIRF. Praised ICMR for their efficient processes, citing an example of the swift transfer of funds. She also mentioned the recent launch of the iPhD by the Minister of Science & Technology. The Chancellor of AcSIR also praised the leadership of AcSIR, acknowledging the valuable experience of one leader in research institutions and the other in universities, which will contribute to the further strengthening of AcSIR.
